BURLINGTON COUNTY FREEHOLDERS ANNOUNCE ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH PHOTO CONTEST WINNERS

The Burlington County Freeholders announced six winners in its Environmental Health Photo Contest. Several dozen photos were submitted and all of the entrees were on display during Earth Fair on Saturday, June 9th.

“We congratulate everyone who participated in this contest and applaud them for their efforts to raise awareness about our impact on the environment,” said Freeholder Director Joe Donnelly.

Jaclyn Ziegler was awarded the People’s Choice Award for her photo of a tree taken in Laurel Acres Park, Mount Laurel.

Rebecca Padgett won the 16-18 age group for her photo of a bee taken in Marlton.

Meghan Schiereck won the 11-15 age group for her picture of a blade of grass with some left-over dew held up against the cloudy sky.

Kate Rose Cullinan won the 10 year old and under group for her picture of a butterfly sitting atop a sunflower.

All of the entries are being showcased on the Burlington County Health Department’s website at <http://www.co.burlington.nj.us/Pages/ViewDepartment.aspx?did=37>
